

Brian Lakamp

BOARD MEMBER

AUDACY

Brian Lakamp's career spans business and technology operations, business and financial transformation, platform development, strategy, and management. Brian currently sits on the board of Audacy, the second-largest radio operator in the US. At Paramount Global, Brian was responsible for developing and operating Paramount's media supply chain, where he led a global team that prepared, localized, packaged, and delivered CBS, Showtime, Paramount, Nickelodeon, MTV, Comedy Central, and P+ Original content to Paramount+, Pluto, Prime Video, Apple, Netflix, and hundreds of additional distribution partners worldwide. Prior, Brian was President of Digital at iHeartMedia, where he launched and operated iHeartRadio, the industry-leading streaming music and digital radio service.

At iHeartMedia, Brian also developed the company's big data and programmatic strategies to unify all distribution platforms. Early in his career, Brian developed and deployed Movielink, one of the first Internet movie services. He has advised multiple media and technology startups.

